"I'LL END IT ALL," IS SUICIDE'S CRY

Mr. Roark Sees Ingram With Pistol in His Hand.

But Realizing Futility of Argument and Fearing for His Own Life, He Flees.

BROODS OVER WIFE'S DEATH

Milton Henry Ingram, 60 years old; one of the most prominent and generally liked contractors in Paducah, committed suicide this morning between the hours of 6 and 7 o'clock at his home, 431 Trimble street. He had not been laboring under any financial difficulties and his health had been good. His action is attributed to brooding over his wife's death two years ago, and it is thought he shot himself while laboring under temporary mental aberration.

He lived with Mr. and Mrs. Collins Roark and conducted his carpenter shop in the rear of the premises. This morning about 4 o'clock he came home, a late hour for him to keep, and retired. Mr. Roark was awakened when he entered that house and heard his stirring about preparatory to retiring. Mr. Ingram seemed to be saying something, but it was unintelligible to the other occupants of the house.

About 7 o'clock this morning Mr. Roark was again awakened. He heard noises from Mr. Ingram's room and went in to investigate. He found the contractor sitting in his night dress standing in the door with a pistol in his hand. Roark suspected that he intended suicide and begged him not to shoot.

Ingram said: "No, I am going to end it all."

"I saw his determination to kill himself," Mr. Roark stated, "and I ran out of the house. Such action as wresting away the weapon was out of question. Mr. Ingram was determined and I could read that in his face."

Mr. Roark did not return to the house immediately after the fatal shot was heard, but summoned neighbors. He was overcome by the nature of the tragedy, and the first person to enter the home was "Ann" Margaret Tyler, colored, who resides across the street. She found Mr. Ingram gasping his last breath.

The pistol ball had entered the left breast and passed entirely through the heart. Physicians were summoned but death had been nearly instantaneous.

Coroner Frank Baker was summoned and at 9 o'clock completed the inquest. The verdict read suicide during temporary insanity.

The verdict was:

"We, the jurors, empaneled and duly sworn to investigate into the death of Mr. Ingram, find after making investigation of all evidence and after viewing the body, that he came to his death by a ball from a 38 pistol fired by his own hand during temporary aberration of mind."

(Signed)

"W. S. Minch, S. T. Randle, W. D. Hunt, Geo. C. Bauer, C. F. Miller, W. W. Pope."

Thinking of Wife.

The conditions prompting the action are unknown. The deceased was not a heavy drinker, and as far as can be learned he had no financial trouble to worry him.

"My brother's wife died two years ago in the residence across the street, No. 505 Trimble street," Mr. Walter Ingram stated, "and I can attribute his action only to brooding over his wife's death. He has seemed lost without her, and of late has been heard to say that he wished he was in the grave by her side."

He is survived by four brothers and one sister. They are Mrs. Fred Hoyer, city; Messrs. Walter and Geo. Ingram, the well known carpenters of the city; Owen Ingram of St. Louis, a cigar maker, and Lionel Ingram, of Brookhaven, Miss., a marble cutter. They have been notified of their brother's death.

Milton Henry Ingram was born in Princeton, Ky., November 21, 1841, and removed to Paducah in the early sixties. He married in Paducah, his wife being Miss Emily Jordan, of Mt. Vernon, Ind. She died two years ago of heart trouble, leaving no children.

The deceased during his early life engaged in the carpenter business, working in his father's firm. Later he worked for other contractors and finally went into the business himself and made success from the start. He had executed some of the biggest and best contracts in Paducah and stood well among the trades' unions.

He was a man with numerous friends and always treated his employees with more than ordinary courtesy and consideration. He was a member of the Odd Fellows lodge and also of the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at the residence. The burial will be in Mt. Ken-

First Courtesy Exchanged Since War Commenced.

Russian Government Promises to Seek Out Assassin of Vice Consul Stuart.

LATEST NEWS OF WASHINGTON

After Assas.

Washington, May 22.—The state department received a cablegram today from the ambassador at St. Petersburg, stating that the Russian government instructed the province, where Batoum is located, to use every effort to apprehend the assassin of United States Vice Consul Stuart murdered yesterday. Inspection of Meat.

Washington, May 22.—Before the week passes Senator Beveridge, acting for President Roosevelt, will have introduced a bill that will greatly affect the beef trust industry not only in Chicago but in all other cities where meats are slaughtered and sold.

The measure contemplates the strictest sort of federal inspection of all meats intended to be shipped. This applies not only to foreign countries but to interstate trade as well. Cattle are to be inspected keenly and where a diseased animal is found it shall be the duty of the inspector to have it killed and its remains turned over to the municipal authorities who will see that it is disposed of as either soap or fertilizing material.

An additional force of inspectors, of course, will be needed and the bill provides for that. The inspectors will be put under civil service and their removal may be brought about on the slightest provision wherein negligence or favoritism is shown.

It is understood in Washington that President Roosevelt is to pursue the packers until he has made them remove all the unclean elements.

Disagree to Rate Bill.

Washington, D. C., May 22.—Ital road rate bill was considered for three hours last night by the house committee on Interstate and Foreign commerce and a deadlock reached to recommend a disagreement to all the senate amendments and to send the measure to a conference. The amendment which gave the house committee the greatest concern was that making pipelines common carriers, which the committee thought inconsistent with the amendment prohibiting common carriers from carrying commodities produced by it. Formal action was not had on any of the amendments and therefore the house conferees likely will be left free to exercise their best judgment.

Baron Must Resign.

Washington, May 22.—It is not likely that the senate will take action in the case of Senator Burton until the sentence of the supreme court actually is put into execution and Burton sent to jail. If he should not do in the meantime resign the senate will take steps to expel him. This will require a two-thirds vote.

NO LIGHT SHED ON THE SHOOTING

Only Surmises as to Trouble Between Wilsons and West.

Coroner's Jury Finds They Came to Their Deaths by Shooting Each Other.

THREE VICTIMS ARE BURIED.

We, the jury find from the evidence that M. L. Wilson, Wes Wilson and Arthur West came to their death May 22, 1906, between 6 and 7 o'clock p. m. in their own hands by shooting each other—R. N. Wade, E. H. Parham, J. L. Page, B. H. Johnson, J. J. Rutherford, H. W. Norton.

This was the verdict of the coroner's jury in Graves county at the inquest into the cause of the deaths Sunday of Mark and Wes Wilson and Arthur West, who were killed in Mark Wilson's store in Lynnville.

Those who were sworn and testified before the jury were: Ed Melton, J. P. McCuan, Noble Allen, Robert Poyner, Jack Page, Allen Roberts, Dr. J. W. Forrest, Joe Andrews and J. P. Caldwell.

The burial of the dead men occurred Monday afternoon. Mark Wilson was buried at the Lynnville cemetery while Wes Wilson and Arthur West were buried in the Beech Grove cemetery.

Version of Tragedy.
By well informed citizens coming from Lynnville Monday is given a very plausible version of the affair.

Wes Wilson and Arthur West had been to the Mt. Zion foot washling about six miles from Lynnville near Cuba and came back late in the afternoon intoxicated. After arriving in front of Mark Wilson's store and going inside the latter joined them and all three went riding in the same buggy for a short while. They all came back and went inside the store. A short time afterwards which was almost 7 o'clock, a fight ensued. It is thought between Wes Wilson and Arthur West, the latter having a 32 calibre hammerless pistol. Mark Wilson is thought had Wes Wilson's revolver which was a late improved 32 calibre Smith & Wesson.

In the attempt to protect his brother, Wes Wilson, Mark Wilson is supposed to have shot at Arthur West and accidentally hit his brother through the breast, producing instant death. At this juncture the battle with revolvers was between West and Mark Wilson. West was shot three times, one ball went through the body under the arm, one in the right arm and another broke two fingers on his right hand which held the revolver.

Danville Ill., May 22.—Of all the rotten decisions ever seen on a ball ground Umpire Cunningham made it yesterday in the ninth inning when a Paducah man made a score. The coach ran home with the base runner and Cunningham decided that it was the coach and not the runner who made the score. The fair minded fans arose in indignation against the decision, threatening to take the "umps" out of the grand stand.

The locals tied the visitors in the seventh inning and in this ninth, when Paducah was at the bat, the error in judgment was made. Manager Lloyd of the Paducah team, will protest the game.

SPEEZY MILLER.

Sobriquet borne At Home By Paducah's Wonder.

Friends of Fred Miller, the big southpaw twirler who is doing such phenomenal work in the box for the Indians, do not approve of the "nicknames" he is given by Kitty league sporting writers, and call the writer to task. The following is a postal card received this morning by the sporting editor of The Sun:

"Brookville, Ind., May 21, 1906. Sporting Editor—Dear Sir: I wish you would give Fred Miller, the big southpaw pitcher with your baseball team, his proper nickname. He is known in our circles as 'Speezy' Miller. Has borne that name for years, and I think he deserves it."

"Yours,
GEORGE E. MULLIN, P. M."

Fred Miller is a youngster, but he has the making of a star in him. His chief standby is fast ball, and when we say "fast ball" we mean it. It is the grittiest sense of the word. It is said that Miller is the hardest pitcher in the league to hold. His steam is equalled by no other pitcher in the league, nor even Tadlock.

Amen this morning received a telegram from Frank Bell, of the Jacksonville team, wanting him to sign with him. Amen will accept.

Wilgus has received several offers, but has not yet accepted. Wilgus is one of the fastest fielding pitchers in the league and was released from the Indian corps of twirlers simply because Lloyd was carrying too many men.

REID DEPLORSES SLANG SPREAD

Blame American and English Newspapers for Corruption of Language.

London, May 22.—Whitelaw Reid the American ambassador to the United States at the annual dinner of the newspaper press fund at the Hotel Metropole. In proposing the prosperity of the fund, he said that if the English people knew something of the press which they did not have, they would appreciate fully the press they had.

The English people liked many things nowadays, he said among them the Americans were trying to get rid of. Some American newspapers, he said, seemed to be traveling across the Atlantic. In view of that he deplored English support of the press and almost incredible corruption of the English language which was proceeding in colleges as in the streets and for which some newspapers ranked the country.

This degradation of the common language would be less threatening said Mr. Reid, if only the English people less cordially admitted American slang. He concluded with a review of the powers and responsibilities of news papers.

Sanitation Hints.

Good sanitation for 1906 should be your motto.

Clean your premises, keep them clean and sprinkle with lime.

Screen your doors and windows and keep out the housefly, the most dangerous of pests. It carries disease and infection.

The most effective money spent in advertising Paducah will be that spent in cleaning and draining it. Every citizen can help to do this, in their own way.

No mosquitoes, no malaria.

A clean city no danger of yellow fever and typhoid.

LIGHTING PLANT*RECOMMENDATION TO GENERAL COUNCIL BY COMMITTEE

Meets With Board of Public Works and Considers Cost and Advantages of Plan.

ADVERTISE FOR STREET BIDS

The board of public works and joint light committee met yesterday afternoon and decided to recommend to the municipal boards the expenditure of $20,000 for placing the city electric light plant in good condition. The meeting resulted in the appointment of a committee to draft the recommendations and this has been done. The paper will be presented at the aldermanic board meeting Thursday night, possibly at the meeting of the board of councilmen Wednesday night.

The full membership of the board of public works was present, but of the joint light committee Councilman Barnett was absent. A report from an electrical expert, showing what might be done to the plant, was carefully examined. It showed where the plant could be made to supply 250 lights with provisions for an additional number if desired at a less expense than 165 lights are costing now.

The report showed that the plant might be improved with $11,000, but this would carry it to general repair, and not give the city practically a new plant as in the former case. After much discussion the first plan was adopted.

Following the joint meeting the board of public works met and authorized the advertising for bids for improving Jones street at Eleventh street.

Pittsney, May 22.—When John Arnald, an aged farmer of Butterfield Hollow, near Duquesne, decided that he would end his life today he took a stout piece of rope, went to the stable, placed his arm lovingly around the neck of Old Hill, a horse he had had for sixteen years, and bade him an affectionate farewell. Then he went behind the stall and knotted the rope about his neck. He turned to fasten the other end around a rafter and had a soap box ready to jump from. Old Hill looked around just as his master was throwing the rope over the rafter. He scented trouble. With one good, generous kick he landed his hoof on the seat of the Devil'sney's trousers with such force that the man was knocked through weather boarding of the stable. He will recover.

Daily Thought.
"Indolence dissolves is the running mate of progress."

Show the city is to continue operating its own lighting plant, it is only right that the plant should be kept up to date, affording the best possible service at a minimum cost of operation. This is only possible with modern first class equipment. The recommendation of the lighting committee and the board of public works that a large sum be spent in rehabilitating the municipal plant is wise and should be adopted by the general council. Then, when the plant is put in shape, an expert at a reasonable salary should be employed to manage it. It is complained that municipal plants are not run as economically as private plants, because city officials do not adopt business methods. Private concerns do not begin their economy by being niggardly with their employees. A private company would employ the best man it could find to manage the plant and pay him what his services are worth. If the city acquires a good plant, steps should be taken at once to keep it in that condition. Otherwise the expense is useless.

Letters are being sent out to the members of the Commercial club by the secretary urging each one to bring in a new member. There is the meat of the question, how to promote the interests of the Commercial club, and therein lies the test of the organization. It stands for the business interest of Paducah and its strength is exactly equal to its representative character. The club will not grow of its own accord. Only as its members are active, and only as they work can it work. In other words, the organization is nothing more than the combined influence of all its members, exerted, according as each plays his part. The secretary can do nothing to increase the membership of the club but his time should be devoted to the executive work of the organization. No one can secure new members but the members themselves. They undoubtedly believe it is a good thing or they would not belong and pay dues. Naturally it will be a better thing as it grows and becomes more representative in character.

Few citizens will dispute the wisdom of the action of the general council in reconsidering the determination to pave Fifth street, and deciding to pave Broadway and Jefferson street between Ninth and Eleventh streets, thus extending the improvements on those two important streets, two blocks farther toward their terminal. Both streets are building up, perhaps, faster than any others in the city, and Broadway especially, the main artery of trade and the western thoroughfare, requires improvement its whole length. Nothing should be allowed to delay the completion of its paving. Among other benefits to follow the extension of the Broadway paving is the double tracking of the street car line. The company's franchise calls for double tracks on the paved portion of Broadway, and the additional track will greatly improve the service and schedule.

Giving due credit to the suspicious that have been rankling in our breasts, the recorded testimony before the commission, inquiring into the relations between the Pennsylvania railroad and the Pennsylvania mines, shows nothing but a honeycomb of graft among lesser officials of the road. Instead of involving the system in a general understanding with certain favored operators, it seems that the latter have been reduced to the necessity of bribing employees. The investigation may be of great benefit to the company as to the public.

If the striking funeral drivers in New York City are replaced with strikebreakers, it is questionable if a sympathetic strike would succeed. People simply can't refuse to die.

Walter Wellman expects to disappear in his polar bound balloon at the same place Andre disappeared.

It is apparent that the czar of all the Russias is without White to meet the present emergency.

Roosevelt's Methods.

President Roosevelt is the most elaborately explained man in the United States, and he is explained in so many ways that numerous contradictions are involved. In the judgments that are pronounced upon him. We hear at times that he is a creature of impulse; also that he is an astute and calculating politician; that he is bold determined and persistent in carrying out his aims; that he surrenders no vital points; that his projects of statesmanship are carefully matured in advance; that he reasons out his theories after he is committed by his acts.

Of course these differences are thomoces explained for the most part by the personal feeling and the political sympathies and antipathies of those who furnish the more or less fragmentary character sketches. And on many of the opinions expressed have been forged without intimate knowledge of the subject. It is interesting to turn to such an article as was written for the Record-Herald Sunday Magazine of May 20 by Arthur Wallace Dunn, who speaks with the authority that comes from long association with the president. The writer in discussing "The Roosevelt Program" emphasizes again and again the practical character of the man. He quotes him as follows:

I must work with such tools as will accomplish best results. . . . I may not accomplish all that I desire; but if something toward better conditions is achieved even by methods not wholly to my liking, my work has not been in vain.

To the same effect is the comment of Mr. Dunn, who says:

The president does not believe that great reforms can be accomplished by a number of individuals who lay down an abstract moral code and raise a standard and ask people to rally around them.

He knows that in legislation only one thing can be accomplished at a time.

While striving for the best, he never forgets the practical and common-sense side of every situation.

Reunts have always stood for more in the opinion of Mr. Roosevelt than methods.

He never cared to participate in torn-hope movements.

He always believed that there was a lesser side of two evils, and the absolutely impractical side of any question was the greatest of all evils; consequently he has never been an independent.

These excerpts give the dominant note of the article, but the writer indicates also that though the president is intensely practical he is working at the time for decency, cleanliness and high ideals in politics. This is undoubtedly the belief of the vast majority of the American people, and as regards the question of method they are not dismayed when something is done.

Fairbank's Break.

At the great meeting in Birmingham, Alabama, on Friday night, when Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks made his address before the conference as fraternal delegate from the Methodist Episcopal church, two auspicious incidents occurred. One was the remark of Dr. W. S. Blatchley of Berkley, Cal., also fraternal delegate, who preceded Mr. Fairbanks. He said that he had no set speech to make, but he knew Mr. Fairbanks had one, for he had read it in a New York paper a week ago.

A DIFFERENCE IN LUNGS.

In the Edinburgh University three human lungs lie side by side. One is of an Eskimo and is snow white. In life, this would be ruddy with rich blood. Another is that of a coal-miner and is black. The other is of a town dweller and is a dirty slate gray, as are the lungs of most city residents. That's why consumption thrives in cities.

One reason why Scott's

Emulsion does so much to keep down consumption is because it helps to keep the lungs clean and supplies them with rich, red blood. It makes the lungs germ-resistant. If the body is run down and health is at a low ebb, Scott's Emulsion will build it up quickly and permanently.

Washington, May 22.—A special report on telephones and telegraphs for 1902 has been issued by the census of the 1,157 incorporated urban centers reported in 1900. 1,092 were provided in 1902 with telephone systems of some description. WORLD'S FAIR CONVENTION OPENS.

Delegates of Second District to Discuss Charity Work in Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 22.—The fifty-fourth annual convention of district No. 2, Independent Order of B'nai Brith, began today with eighty delegates from Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico, and will continue until Tuesday. Much of the time will be spent in discussing charitable projects, including the management of the orphans' home at Cleveland and the hospital for consumptives at Denver, both of which are supported by the district. Further plans for assisting refugees from Russia will be adopted.

The woman visitors accompanying the delegates are to go to the mother home of this Roman Catholic educational order in the United States. Harry Schloss of Terre Haute, will be succeeded by Milton Abberger of Denver as president.

MISSOURI LINES UP FOR IRVAN.

Thirty-Three Counties Declare for Hu to Head 1908 Ticket.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—Thirty-three Missouri counties now have endorsed Huynn for the national standard bearer in 1908. Ten counties swung into line at the conventions yesterday, making more than one-fourth of the counties which have come out unqualified for the Nebraskan, notwithstanding there has been no agitation in the state over national politics. One of the unusual features of the case is that Governor Folsom is regarded as a presidential possibility. None of the counties so far has mentioned the governor in connection with the presidency, though one of them came out for him for vice president as the running mate with Bryan.

PAT JOB.

New York Assemblymen Took $50,000 a Year Subsidies.

Washington, May 22.—Some additional inside light was thrown on insurance methods in New York today by Representative James J. Goulden of that state, before the house committee on judiciary, considering the Ames bill for the regulation of insurance in the District of Columbia. Mr. Goulden is general agent of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company in New York.

"Why," he said, "it was a well known fact that to be a senator at Albany was worth anywhere from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, and that the money came largely from insurance companies. This is no secret. Every New York man knows it. I know it well."

White Americans take great pride and pleasure in being called "A strenuous people." It is perhaps not generally appreciated that a great many injure themselves physically, who drink at least four glasses of water while he was waiting for sufficient silence to enable him to squeeze in a word of explanation edgewise. He made his explanation in due time and amid some confusion on his own part.

Murder Daily in Chicago.

"A time table of crime in Chicago was a feature of an address before the Chicago Presbytery in which Attorney McNamee Cleland severely criticized Mayor Dunne for his failure to suppress crime and enforce the law."

According to Mr. Cleland's figures, the Chicago time table of crime is as follows:

A disturbance in the public streets every six seconds.

An arrest is made by the police every 7 1/2 minutes.

An arrest is made for drunkenness every 15 minutes.

Larceny is committed every 20 minutes.

There is an assault and battery case every 27 minutes.

Burglary is committed every three hours.

A hold-up is committed every six hours.

There are two suicides every day.

There is one murder every day.

The Phonograph and the Graft
By O. HENRY

Copyright by S. S. McClure Co.

II LOOKED IN at the engine room of the Bloomfield Inter Manufacturing company, limited, for the engineer was Kirksey, and there was a golden half hour between the time he shut down steam and washed up that I coveted.

I found Kirksey resting, with his pipe lit, smut-faced and hirsute overalled.

"'Tis a fair afternoon," I said, "but bids to be colder."

"Did I ever tell you," began Kirksey honorably, "about the time Henry Horsecollar and me took a phonograph to South America?" And I felt ashamed of my shivering and dropped into the wooden chair he kicked toward me.

"Henry was a quarter breed, quarterback Cherokee, educated east in the silos of football and west in contraband whisky, and a gentleman, same as you or me. He was easy and romping in his ways; a man about six foot, with a kind of rubber-like movement.

"Henry and me met at Texarkana and figured out this phonograph scheme. He had $300 which came to him out of a land allotment in the reservation. I had run down from Little Rock on account of a distressful scene I had witnessed on the street there. A man stood on a box and passed around some gold watches, screw case, stem winders, Elgin movement, very elegant. Twenty bucks they cost you over the counter. At $1 the crowd fought for the ticklers. The man happened to find a value full of them handy, and he passed them out like putting hot biscuits on a plate. The backs were hard to unscrew, but the crowd put its ear to the case, and they ticked merrily and agreeably. Three of those watches were genuine ticklers, but the rest, they were only ticklers.

"Hey? Why, empty cases, with one of them horny black bugs that fly around electric lights in 'em. Them bugs kick off unities and seconds industries and beautiful. The man I was speaking of cleaned up $288 and went away, because he knew that when it came to wind watches in Little Rock an entomologist would be needed, and he wasn't one.

"So, as I say, Henry had $300 and I had $288. The phonograph idea was Henry's, but I took to it freely, being fond of machinery of all kinds.

"We bought a fine phonograph in Texarkana—one of the best models, and half a trunkful of records. We packed up and took the T. & P. for New Orleans. From that celebrated center of molasses and dismasted coon songs we took a steamer for—yes, I think it was South America or Mexico—and full of hubub to divulge the location of R.—'ts on the rural delivery map, its colored yellow on the map and branded with the literature of cigar boxes.

"We landed on a smiling coast at a town they denounced by the names near us; I can recollect, of Sore-toe-kangaroos. 'Twas a palatable enough place to look at. The houses were clean and white, sticking about among the scenery like hard-boiled eggs served with lettuce. There was a block of skyscraper mountaintops in the suburbs, and they kept pretty quiet, like they were laying one finger on their lips and watching the town. And the sea was remarking 'Sh-sh-sh!' on the beach, and now and then a ripe coconut would fall kerplunk in the sand, and that was all there was doing.

"The captain went ashore with us and offered to conduct what he seemed to like to call the obsequies. He introduced Henry and me to the United States consul and a roan man, the head of the department of mercury and felonies disposition, the way it read upon his sign.

"I touch here again a week from today," says the captain.

"By that time," we told him, "we'll be amassing wealth in the interior towns with our galvanized primos and correct imitations of Son's band excavating a march from a tin mine."

"'You'll not,' says the captain. 'You'll be hypnotized. Any gentleman in the audience who kindly steps upon the stage and looks this country in the eye will be converted to the hypothesis that he's not a fly in the Elgin creamery. You'll be standing knee deep in the surf waiting for me, and your machine for dunking hambuger steak out of the litho-respected art of music will be playing 'There's no place like home.'"

"Henry skinned a twenty off his roll and received from the bureau of mercury dispositions a paper bearing a red seal and a dialect story, and no change.

"Then we got the consul full of red wine and struck him for a horoscope. He was a thin, youngish kind of man, I should say past fifty, sort of French-Irish in his affections and puffed up with disconsolation. Yes, he was a flattened kind of a man in whom drink lay stagnant, inclined to corpulence and misery. Yes, I think he was a kind of Dutchman, being very sad and gullible in his ways.

"The marvelously invention," he says, "entitled the phonograph has never before invaded these shores. The people have never heard it. They would not believe it if they should. Simple benighted children of nature, progress has never condemned them to accept the work of a can opener as an overtone, and ragtime might invite them to a bloody revolution. But you can try the experiment. The best chance you have is that the popular may not wake up when you play. There's two ways," says the consul, "they may take it—they may become interested with attention, like an Atlanta colonel listening to 'Marching Through Georgia,' or they will get excited and transpose the key of the music with an ax and yourselves into a dungeon. In the latter case," says the consul, "I'll do my duty by cabling to the state department, and I'll wrap the stars and stripes around you when you come to be shot, and dignify them with the vengeance of the greatest gold export and financial reserve nation on earth. The ding is full of bullet holes now," says the consul, "made in that way. Twice before," says the consul, "I have cabled our government for a couple of gunboats to protect American citizens. The first time the department sent me a pair of gunboats. The other time was when a man named Fong was going to be executed here. They referred that appeal to the secretary of agriculture. Let us now disturb the senior behind the bar for a subsequent of the red wine."

"Thus soliloquized the consul of Sore-toe-kangaroo to me and Henry Horsecollar.

"But, notwithstanding, we hired a room that afternoon in the Calle de los Angeles, the main street that runs along the shore, and put our trunks there. 'Twas a good sized room, dark and cheerful, but small. 'Twas on a various street, diversified by houses and conservatory plots. The pensantry of the city passed to and fro on the fine pasture between the sidewalks. 'Twas, for the world, like an open chorus when the Royal Kapoozinh is about to enter.

"We were rubbing the dust of the machine and getting fixed to start business the next day when a big, fine looking white man in white clothes stopped at the door and looked in. We extended the invitations, and he walked inside and seated us up. He was chewing a long cigar and wrinkling his eyes, meditative, like a girl trying to decide which dress to wear to the programme to happen to them."

"We three were sitting at table in the cantine of the Purified Souls. Mellinger poured out wine and was looking some worried. I was thinking.

In the old copy books, "Honesty is the best policy." That's it. I'm the only honest man in this republic. The government knows it; the people know it; the bootlers know it; the foreign investors know it. I make the government keep its faith, if a man is promised a job he gets it; if outside capital buys a concession they get the goods, I run a monopoly of square dealing here. There's no competition. If Colonel Dlogenoff were to dash his lantern in this precinct he'd have my address inside of two minutes. There isn't big money in it, but it's a sure thing and lets a man sleep of nights."

"Thus Homer P. Mellinger made ornithology to me and Henry Horsecollar in Sore-toe-kangaroo. And later he divested himself of this remark:

"Hoys, I'm to hold a soiree this evening with a gang of leading citizens, and I want your assistance. You bring the musical corn sheller and give the affair the outside appearance of a function. There's important business on hand, but it mustn't show, I can talk to you people. I've been puffed for years on account of not having anybody to blow off and brag to. I get homesick sometimes, and I'd swap the entire perplexities of office for just one hour to have a stool and a cigarette sandwich somewhere on Thirty-fourth street and stand and watch the street cars go by and smell the peanut roaster at old Giuseppe's trout stand."

"Yes," said I, "there's the dive at Billy Henfrow's cafe, corner of Thirty-fourth and—"

"God knows it," interrupts Mellinger, "and if you'd told me you knew Billy Henfrow I'd have lavished tons of ways of making you happy. Billy was my side-kicker in New York. That is a man who never knew what crooked was. Here I am working honestly for a graft, but that man loses money on it. Carrionbed, I get sick at times of this country. Everything's rotten. From the executive down to the coffee pickers they're plotting to down each other and skin their friends. If a mule driver takes off his hat to no official, that mule figures it out that he's a popular bloke and sets his pegs to stir up a revolution and upset the administration. It's one of my little chores as private secretary to snuff out these revolutions and nail the kibosh before they break out and scratch the paint off the government property. That's why I'm down here now in this mildewed coast town. The governor of the district and his crew are plotting in uprise. I've got every one of their names, and they're invited to listen to the phonograph tonight, compliments of H. P. M. That's the way I'll get them in a bunch, and things are on the programme to happen to them!"

"We three were sitting at table in the cantine of the Purified Souls. Mellinger poured out wine and was looking some worried. I was thinking.

Seven out of ten readers of this paper are tortured with piles or some form of rectal disease. You are, or you would not be reading this article. Thirty years ago doctors carried a lancet in their vest pocket and bled people for all sorts of diseases and bled them hard,—sometimes a quart at a time. It was the fashion then. All that is changed nowadays and a doctor with a lancet would be considered a curiosity.

Five years ago doctors "cut out" piles wherever they got the chance. All that has been changed since the marvelous soothing, healing and curative properties of Pyramid Pile Cure have become known.

By every mail we get letters like this:

"I want to tell you that it was the first thing that eased the terrible pain and itching and allowed me to have a night's rest for 7 long weeks. WALKING MUNN

WILL HAVE OPPONENT IN PERSON OF JUDGE BRADLEY.

Democratic Candidates for Legislature Announcing Early in Hopkins County.

Although the senatorial contest with Gov. J. C. W. Beckham and Senator James H. McCleary as the candidates, is almost eighteen months off candidates for the legislature in many parts of the state have already entered upon an active campaign.

In Hopkins county an exciting contest is looked for, as Judge H. B. Bradley and Munro Wilson (Walking Munn) are both candidates for the democratic nomination. Judge Bradley and Wilson are bitter political and personal enemies, and neither of them will leave anything undone in bringing about the other's defeat. Judge Bradley has served two terms as a member of the house of representatives and was a recognized leader of the majority. He is one of the best known politicians in Western Kentucky, and is a member of the state executive committee.

Wilson is the present representative and gained considerable notoriety by walking from Hopkins county to Frankfort to take his seat, and won for himself the appellation, "Walking Munn." Shortly after the legislature convened he announced himself as a candidate for congress in the Second district. In his announcement he said that he was going to walk all over his district, and if elected he would walk to Washington. A primary was called, but Wilson withdrew after making a brief canvass—Louisville Herald.
